No Evidence? Nonsense
One Killed. It Pays
Superstitious Millions
To the Last Man

"I FIND no evidence of immortality," says Mr. Darwin of the Evolution trial. He is mistaken. He DOES find evidence of immortality. The best evidence is the fact that all of us, including Darwin, LONG for immortality, and instinctively believe in it.

Nature and Providence do not deceive or mock us. If immortality were not our destiny, we should not all be speaking of it and desiring it.

A DROP of water going over the edge of Niagara "feels no evidence of immortality." It wouldn't believe that it is on its way back to the ocean, whence it once came, and that in years to come it will again go up to the clouds, then fall to the earth and roll down to the ocean.

There are many things that the drop of water, Mr. Darwin and the rest of us don't understand.

HOWARD PALMER, of Chicago, who fought under the name of Mickey Shannan, was killed on Tuesday in a boxing match. Knocked against the ropes, he fell, struck his head on the floor and death was practically instantaneous.

OUR CIVILIZATION, which is so worried about scientific teachings that seem to contradict the Bible, ought to have something to say about the laws that defy the Ten Commandments and deceiver, authorizing prize fights with the accompaniment of manslaughter, constant brutality and the dissemination of dishonesty, vice and disease that go with it.

SIXTEEN HUNDRED MILLION human beings on earth, fourteen hundred millions are superstitious, twelve hundred millions are INTENSELY superstitious.

In China, fighters punish their enemies by digging up graves of their ancestors. In that respectful land, to dig up a man's great grandfather is a worse injury than to kill the man.

A MOHAMMEDAN arrives from India, sick, pale, at the point of death. Leaving home he took a powerful charm belonging to his older brother, who, as the ship sailed, yelled a curse at him from the dock, and the curse worked.

This shows, as your Christian Scientist friend will tell you, that it took hold on the poor Mohammedan's "mental mind."

In ancient days, they passed laws forbidding you to make a wax figure of your enemy, to stick into it a pin each day until the enemy died. Many still believe in those wax figures.

And then there is the Scopes trial.

THIRTY-FOUR Minnesota volunteers in the Civil War formed a "Last Man's Club." The club has just held its fortieth annual reunion. Four are living, one too ill to attend. One of the three present was unable to stand, so they carried the last man sitting.

ONE OF these days there actually will be on this earth some last man, woman, or last child. For in time this world must die. Science and the Bible teach it.

WHAT KIND of creature will that last human be? What name, what language? How much will he or she know?

Will the human race, having moved up to the highest possible point, gradually go back to barbarism at the end, as the individual in extreme old age goes back to childhood?

WILL THE last man know how to talk to the other planets, and will he know just what is going to happen to him after he dies, or will he be like ourselves, still wondering, with only faith to comfort him, and Confined on Page 4, Column 5.

Millionaire Farmer Dies in River

DEATH FOR TWO, THREE SERIOUSLY INJURED IN CAMBRIDGE AUTO SMASH

TELLS HOW CLUB WAS 'SOAKED'

Captain Humphries Says His Company Shot 2,000 Gallons at Pickwick Fire

There was more testimony concerning the Pickwick Club fire of April 13 today in Suffolk Superior Court at the resumption of the trial of the twelve men under indictment for the collapse of that celebrated night resort on the morning of July 4 and the consequent loss of forty-four lives.

Captain Joseph T. Humphries of the Boston Fire Department was the first witness. At the time of the April fire he was a lieutenant and was on duty at the club.

Cross-examination by the defense sought to get him to admit the club building was weakened by the fire.

Captain Humphries said his company poured 2,000 gallons of water into the fire on April 13.

In direct examination he testified that the club building was weakened by the fire.

Mr. Pease asked him whether, at the fire, he did more than watch the water pouring into the flames.

He said he "kept an eye" on the fire, the water, his men and the crowd.

Q—As a matter of fact, you can't see whether all this water went into the building or over it? A—Not exactly.

Q—Your company sent water into the fire for twenty minutes? A—Yes.

When night opened Judge Henry T. Lummus took a look around and noticed that the Pickwick Club model had been moved from the lawyers' table to a desk. It was much more conspicuous there, from the viewpoint of the spectators, but he ordered it moved back.

AUTO WRECK, IN WHICH 2 MEN WERE KILLED

Photo shows wreckage of auto in which Charles Baylis and Oscar Williams were killed and six injured, three seriously, in Cambridge, at Putnam and Pleasant streets, after a wild joyride. The auto crashed into an iron pole at the corner of the two streets. The joyride had been prolonged in Cambridge thoroughfares and caused a chase by police, who fired several shots in trying to round up the car.

JOY RIDERS' CAR IS CHASED BY POLICE; MANY SHOTS FIRED

With two men killed outright in Cambridge and ten other persons, including two women, injured in this and two other crashes, automobiles took a heavy toll early today.

Ten men were in the Cambridge car that crashed into a pole at Putnam and Pleasant streets, ending a wild chase by police, during which a number of shots were fired at the speeding joyriders.

The other accidents were in Waltham, where a touring car crashed into a sedan, injuring two men, and in Salem, where a restaurant truck crashing two girls and three men crashed into a telephone pole. The Cambridge dead are: Charles Baylis of Alston street, and Oscar Williams, No. 65 Antrim street.

Ten young men were in the joy riding death car in Cambridge. For several hours the police were searching for the car.

HOTEL DEATH VICTIM WAS ARSON SUSPECT

Providence, July 23 (A.P.)—David Peabody, forty-five, of No. 11 Lenox avenue, who was found dead in a bath tub at the Hotel Essex, Boston, yesterday afternoon, where he was registered as "B. Klein," of New York city, was manager and proprietor of the Bedford Woodson Mills, Chappaqua, and was being sought in connection with an attempt of arson at the mill July 13.

An explosion of gasoline awakened persons living in the vicinity at about 2 o'clock in the morning, and an automobile was seen speeding away from the mill. Fire had been started in two places.

John Devlin, detective attached to the Essex, was in charge of the search.

STATE UPHOLDS BOOST OF COMMUTER FARES

Commuters must continue to pay the rates fixed by the three railroads serving Boston, when they mounted fares 20 per cent, eighteen months ago.

An appeal to the Department of Public Utilities to modify the increase in the price of twelve-week and monthly commutation tickets was denied today by the department.

which reaffirmed its previous decision permitting the increase. The department admits, in its decision today, that there are marked differences in the permit rates between the three railroads, but asserts that if these differences were corrected, the general level of fares for suburban service

MILLIONAIRE'S BODY ON BANK OF RIVER

Parkman Dexter Pierce, Framingham millionaire farmer whose body was found on the bank of the Neponset river, is believed to have drowned while suffering from a severe nervous disorder.

The "young" farmer escaped last Saturday from the Channing Sanatorium in Woburn where he was a patient for his nervous affliction and it is believed that in wandering through the country he fell into the river.

Medical Examiner Andrew M. Scott, his mother, Mrs. Rita May Scott, says she will join him in eternity.

She so declared today, calmly and without emotion, in the first statement she has ever made to a newspaper.

LOTTA ALWAYS WITH MOTHER

George W. Wilson of Dorchester, famous comedian of Boston Museum days, for fifty years an actor, and also noted as the dean of all the "street" comedians, testified today in behalf of the prosecution of the will of the late Lotta Wilson in Suffolk County.

Put on the stand by counsel for the estate to dispute the claim of Mrs. Ida Blackburn that she, as Lotta's daughter, should be recognized as heir-at-law to the famous street fortune, Wilson told of seeing with Lotta at the old Boston Museum.

Wilson said he acted opposite Lotta at the Museum in the comedy "The Girl Who Came to Supper."

BOY'S PARENTS RAP ELOPING TEACHER

Episcopalians in War on 'Barnyard Morality'

TEACHER, EX-KAISER, PLEDGE ELOPE

Parents of Attleboro High Boy She Secretly Married Call Her "Vamp"

Attleboro, July 23.—A romance which blossomed in the class rooms of the Attleboro High School, between a pretty young teacher and the star of the high school football team, ended in the elopement of the couple, who are now on their honeymoon in Michigan.

While the whole town is talking about the unusual love affair, in which eighteen-year-old Joseph Nerney, Jr., and Miss Mae Foster were the principals, students at the high school smile quietly and knowingly. The name of the young athlete who received his diploma just a month ago, bitterly denounces the teacher, declaring that she "vamped" her son and "twisted him about her finger."

But the high school students, who observed the friendship between teacher and scholar develop into love, insist it was a "fifty-fifty" proposition.

The relationship between young Nerney and his teacher was so close that they could not carry on their courtship openly. An exchange of few, covert glances in the classroom—a few whispered words of endearment as they passed one another in the hall—were the only intimacies of the romance.

The teacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Foster of Manhattan avenue, Norwood, was a friend of the Nerney family and she visited occasionally at the Nerney home.

Then, following graduation, the shock came. The young graduate and the teacher slipped quietly from Attleboro to New Hampshire early on the morning of July 4 and were married there later in the day. The couple, with what money they had, most of which belonged to the bride, left for Michigan.

When they failed to return home, search was instituted for the couple. The parents of young Nerney refused to believe their son had married the teacher until they found the records of the marriage in New Hampshire.

The couple are now in Michigan and it is not known whether they will remain there or will return to Attleboro.

Left Arm Lifeless, He Works and Helps Out the Expenses at Doorn

By S. DUNBAR WEAVER. Copyright, 1925, by International News Service. All Foreign Rights Reserved. Willbad, Black Forest, Germany, July 23.—Hermine, the wife of the former Kaiser, told me in an interview here that he gets up early and spends most of his morning working in his garden.

He doesn't pretend to be a super-gardener and willingly listens to the advice of the professional caretaker. He doesn't dictate, but helps. So much so that his work actually means considerable saving in the Doorn exchequer.

Chopping wood is no longer his sole outdoor occupation. He does everything a common gardener does—waters flowers, cuts bushes, pulls out weeds—in short, makes himself useful in the trust sense of the word.

Like Man of 18. This keeps him physically fit. He is in better form today than in years. "I am not exaggerating," his wife comments, "when I say he is in every way like a vigorous man of fifty."

The ex-Kaiser opens all personal letters himself. This is a great effort for him because he has to do it with one hand, his left arm and hand being absolutely lifeless.

Hermine has believed the Kaiser's left arm only partly paralyzed and has thought he could use it, at least to some extent. Hermine revealed for the first time that it is actually useless and has been since childhood.

Foiled His People. "It is dead," said his wife. This was a great surprise to the German people, who were completely fooled all the while by his calm and merely thought "little something the matter with the left arm, but nothing serious."

The Kaiser's enemies assert he was wrong when he went to Holland in November, 1918. God knows cowardice is the last thing one can accuse him of.

"If the world knew what a terrific trouble he had to fight—and how often he had to fight—against his own will, but at the advice of his own traitor counselors during those fearful hours, it would judge him more leniently."

Faced Danger. "The reason why the people of Germany never knew how useless his left arm was to him is that he never will power, almost superhuman energy, he concealed it. Anyone who has ever sat on a horse knows what it means to do what he did. To have the reins of a fiery charger in an absolutely lifeless arm and ride for miles and miles at the head of through cheering crowds and keep smiling—smiling—smiling—on all sides with his right hand."

"One little jerk, one gesture, trill or nervousness on the horse's part and he would have taken a fall that would have meant grief, and in the case of the crowd, tragedy. Yet he did it again and again, disregarding all warnings and friendly advice, determined to see it through with his powerful will and self-disciplined mind."

WILHELM LIKE MAN OF 50, SAYS HIS WIFE

Contentment, at least, seems plain in the faces of the ex-Kaiser and his wife, Princess Hermine. She goes further and says they are thoroughly happy. The picture was taken the day he celebrated his sixty-sixth anniversary.

Lash Three and Put Salt on Wounds

Montreal, July 23.—The time-blackened pages of history were riddled back to the rack today, and from the gray walls of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary came a tale of tortureavoring of medieval times.

In the telling, three men, convicts incarcerated for felonies, lay propped in agony on their hospital beds, their bare backs told and raw with salt-rubbed gashes.

The record of humanity that tempests justice with mercy holds no weight in St. Vincent de Paul, it is evidenced by the tale of the tortures and the pages of the prison record state deeper red when it is revealed that the punishment of the convicted felon is but one-third complete.

More brutal than all is the fact that such a revelation to the public practices of the federal penitentiaries should have taken place in the dreariest hours of silence bearing the name of an ecclesiastic and a convicted man, whose life on earth was devoted to relieving the pain and lightening the physical misery of seventeenth century convicts.

AVATAR OF WOMAN. The three convicts, James Miller and William Martin, imprisoned for burglary, and Henri Dumont, a legal assassin of a woman, were sentenced each to thirty lashes with the "cat," an ancient instrument of torture, but in St. Vincent's case of eleven knotted flogs.

Eleven writhing ribs of knots in fact just as much more punishing as thirty lashes, but to make matters more certain, the whipping frame at the penitentiary is rigged to tilt forward, enabling a heavier and more direct stroke.

The strokes, each were administered to the men by husky officers in compliance with court orders. With each stroke, the wailing "cat" curled viciously on the white backs of the unfortunate, but came away, dropping, leaving in its wake a red welt that slowly crimsoned and itched.

Unlike Yankee prisoners in prison where the lash is permitted, the St. Vincent whippers performed their duty with no lightened hand. SALT POURED ON WOUNDS. When the tenth stroke had been laid and the three men lay writhing in their beds, red, raw, swollen, bleeding, they were released and taken to the prison infirmary.

DIVORCES WRECKING AMERICAN HOME LIFE

Chicago, July 23 (A.P.)—What attitude the church should take toward requiring health certificates as prerequisites to marriage and what support it should give a national law providing for uniform standards of marriage and divorce in the United States are two questions the joint commission on family life of the Episcopal Church is seeking to answer preparatory to its report to the triennial convention in New Orleans in October.

If the rate of divorce goes on increasing as at present, the whole conception of Christian marriage will fade from the consciousness of the American people and be replaced by a "barnyard morality," the commission believes.

The Christian training alone will correct the condition, said a statement by Bishop William Hall Mooreland, a member of the committee issued here by the bishops, an Episcopal church publication.

MARRIAGE WORTH SAVING? "We must not deceive ourselves," the real issue in this controversy is "marriage worth saving," the statement declared.

"Facilities for dissolving marriage abound, inflaming every selfish desire, encouraging marital infidelity and stimulating every secret sin. Thousands of young people, knowing that the law permits a consecutive, or 'random,' polygamy, enter the marital union with the deliberate purpose of breaking it off should it be unsatisfactory."

"There is invariably accompanied by sterility. Birth control is a problem that needs to be faced. The whole subject of the end and object of marriage must be set forth with clarity, wisdom and love."

CHURCH REMAINS IN DUTY. "The church, sent to teach and lead, utters no strong, clear note on this vital theme. Our own church is shamefully remiss in her neglect of plain preaching on the nature of Christian marriage."

"Allowing for notable and beautiful exceptions, it is generally true that the American home has ceased to function. We are not facing a crisis, nor are we suffering from the effects of war. Our life grows out of the breakdown of the home. The essential need underlying all this is to make American life Christian."

STAR WITNESS MISSING IN PICKFORD KIDNAPING PLOT. Los Angeles, July 23 (A.P.)—Anxiety over the whereabouts of "Louis the Spider," star state witness in the trial of three men accused of conspiring to kidnap Mary Pickford, today helped to relieve the death of dramatic tension which has marked proceedings.

Prosecution attorneys predicted the "Spider," whose real name is Louis Glick, would be on hand when needed to tell how he "stole" on the kidnaping conference of the three defendants, Charles Starnes, Claude Hamilton and Adrian Wood. Defense attorneys, however, named subpoenaed servers to be sent out in search of him.

PASTOR CLAMS HE'S PUZZLED BY ARREST

Spiritualist Leader Hints Authorities Making Martyr of Him

Denying that he ever gave publicistic demonstrations on purely material matters, and hinting strongly that he is a martyr to the cause of Spiritualism, the Rev. Dr. Frederick A. Wiggin, pastor of Trinity Church, has made a statement in which he declares he does not know why he was indicted by a Suffolk grand jury for larceny.

Dr. Wiggin is the recognized leader of Spiritualism in New England, and was arrested in the drive undertaken by District Attorney O'Brien to drive alleged fake mediums from Boston.

"I don't know why I am called to an account by the Court of Suffolk County," the statement said. "Since I would admit that if I had violated any law, I should be aware of it, but greater men than I have had to pay a price for being in the vanguard of what they conceive to be true. I have learned through experience that the heterodoxy of today becomes the orthodoxy of tomorrow."

Dr. Wiggin, who has been pastor of Trinity Church for 37 years, said that he studied for the Baptist ministry and was ordained into that faith, but gave it up because "I became convinced through personal connection with invisible personalities that the return of the so-called dead was a fact."

"I have sought hard and desperately among Spiritualists and investigators, to measure the importance of Spiritualism, and to show forth the evil possibility resulting from the mere pursuit of investigating Spiritualism. I am a spiritualist, but do not give, for I do not believe in doing so, advice concerning purely material things, for the simple reason that to do so is not giving spiritual advice, but merely spirit advice."

Storms Ruin Railroad Bridges in Colorado

Trinidad, Colo., July 23 (AP)—The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company today announced that it had founded a large area of the city following a series of cloud-bursts have been needed.

No loss of life occurred. Property damage was mainly upon the cattle and railroad bridges of the city, while the business and residential districts were under water. The destruction of the large steel Santa Fe railroad bridge at Canon, three miles west of the city was the greatest.

The Denver Rio Grande and Western system reported that three hundred feet of track had been washed away and one bridge destroyed.

The Colorado and Wyoming railroad, operated by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, reported bridges washed out at Valdez and Segundo.

Gunpoint After Chase;
Companion Escapes

John T. O'Brien, sixteen years old, of No. 31 Mount Vernon street, Somerville, son of James J. O'Brien, Charlesworth "Speed King," is in jail again.

O'Brien and two other boys are alleged to have been attempting to rob a baker wagon when they were discovered by Joseph L. Murphy of No. 40 Laurel street, Somerville, who gave chase, after calling the police.

The boys are alleged to have had a stolen automobile in their possession, but they abandoned the machine at the approach of Murphy and ran into Summer street. The police patrol was approaching and the policemen joined in the chase, finally capturing O'Brien.

William M. and Joseph L. Murphy first saw the boys and Joseph jumped into his auto and reported to police headquarters. William and Joseph are brothers to John J. Murphy, twice Democratic candidate for Mayor of Somerville.

Joseph Murphy, who has a reputation as an athlete, started after O'Brien. The chase led to Green street, to Summer street, to School street, where he caught up with O'Brien.

William M. Murphy chased the other boy from Laurel street to Preston road, to Loring street, to Granite street, to Somerville street, to Dana street, to Tyler street, to Vine street, where the youngster escaped by jumping a fence, running along the tracks of the Fitchburg line of the Boston & Maine railroad, around freight cars and disappearing through a back yard.

ROW OVER FEE FOR LAWYER SUBSIDIES

Attorneys for Creditors of Bankrupt Firm Admit
Payments Justified

Taunton, July 23—A $2,100 fee charged by an attorney for a bankrupt firm was vigorously protested by attorneys for the creditors, at a hearing before the referee but before the close of the hearing the creditors' counsel admitted the fee was not exorbitant.

Attorney Walter A. Briggs of Attleboro, representing the bankrupt firm of Morris & Kewler Jewelry Company of Attleboro, was the lawyer who presented the $2,100 bill.

Edwin Thayer, clerk of the Attleboro court, first objected to the sum and he and the attorney had a verbal tilt, until Referee George W. Weston poured oil on the troubled waters.

Judge Henry Nickerson of Fall River and Horace M. Peck, representing the Manufacturing Jewelers' Board of Trade of Providence, in behalf of the creditors, also voiced objection to Mr. Briggs' bill.

After Mr. Briggs had made a statement to the court and showed that he acted with the attorney for the receiver and was instrumental, with M. E. McGuire of Attleboro, counsel for the receiver, in saving the estate the liability on a note for $24,000, and in addition had negotiated the sale of the plant, Judge Nickerson arose and said he was big enough to say he had not known the true state of affairs and did not know what Mr. Briggs had done in the case and wanted to say he withdrew his objection and said he thought they say that Mr. Briggs' fee was fair.

AVERT RESIGNATION OF BRITISH SEA LORDS

London, July 23 (A.P.)—If the morning newspapers are correctly informed, the threatened resignation of the sea lords of the Admiralty have been averted by surprise. Mr. Churchill, as spokesman of the treasury, had insisted the country could not afford more than two new cruisers this year and three next year. The Admiralty held out for four cruisers this year and three next.

MISSING PROFESSOR IS SAFE IN ENGLAND

Edinburgh, Scotland, July 23 (A.P.)—Professor Joseph Victor Collins of Stevens Point, Wis., returned to London today unable to see why the English police should have been so excited about his visit to the North to attend the world education conference. Professor Collins' first impression that his wife did not know where he was came yesterday when he was informed that police were searching for him on the theory that he had been slain by poison. The professor explained he had left London ahead of schedule, but had informed his wife by postcard of his going.

As a result of a crusade against pickpockets and confidence men started by the police to protect the big crowds leaving the city for vacation from the North and South stations and also to protect the thousands of visitors to the city, six men were arrested by inspectors. They were all held as suspicious persons and unless they can give reasons for hanging around the train sheds they will be in court today.

Muriel Vanderbilt Will Have Only One Attendant

Mr. Church's Supporting Staff at All-Important Wedding Will Number Nine

BY FAR THE LARGER PORTION OF THE Vanderbilt-Church bridal entourage for next Saturday's all-important society wedding will be of the masculine persuasion. When Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, daughter of the William Kissam Vanderbilt, 24, becomes Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, Jr., she will have but one attendant.

AS TO Mr. Church's supporting staff, Boston and Gotham are about equally represented, with the best man and three of the eight ushers hailing from the Big City, and five young men from the bridegroom-elect's conferees in Boston's smart set asked to serve in that pleasant duty.

"BEACHMOUND," THE Benjamin Thaw Newport estate where this Summer the Vanderbilt Laves at Ponies are set up, with its gray coloring, stately pillared portico and trim lawns, suggests somewhat the Southern colonial. Just before it lies Bailey's Beach, that fashionable strand of the Rhode Island Spa, and nearby are other homes of the elite.

NATURALLY THERE'S a brilliant round of entertaining in order. Count and Countess Layton Scheuchert (Gladys Vanderbilt) with their ball Saturday evening after the wedding are giving what is perhaps the largest affair. The Scheucherts, in Newport for the Summer, give the ball at the Harry Payne Whitney Villa, and the guest list glitters with names of those who occupy the highest social summits.

Mrs. William C. Potter was Rose Saltonstall, daughter of Mrs. Philip L. Saltonstall, sister of Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr., and an actress of note. Naturally she's much interested in Hamilton MacFadden's Repertory Theatre in Salem.

WHIST PARTY ADDS $500 TO FUND

Baseball Team Offers to Play Game for the Benefit of Mrs. Alexander

The big hearts of Greater Boston were registered at the Boston Evening American office today by 200 ladies at Nantasket Beach and the Wilbur shoe baseball team in the center of the city.

Into the Boston Evening American office today came Philip Alexander, uncle of Police Inspector Benjamin Alexander, carrying with him cash and checks aggregating $501.30.

The money was brought in to be added to the fund sponsored by this newspaper for relief of the widow and are children of Inspector Alexander, who was killed in the Plymouth Club collapse while in the performance of his duty.

It was raised at a whist party given by Philip Alexander's niece, Mrs. C. K. Helgers, of No. 25 Fuller street, Brookline, at her Summer home, Adams street and Beach avenue, Nantasket.

Two hundred women sat down at 10 bridge tables, and when the play was completed, seventy-five prizes, donated by the Touraine Glove Co. of Boston, were distributed.

Voluntary contributions were added to the proceeds then by many of the women, and the net total was made up to $501.30. Mrs. Helgers furnished the excellent refreshments herself and a number of volunteer girls assisted in serving.

The committee for the bridge was composed of Mrs. Helgers, Mrs. William Holmes, Mrs. Warby, Mrs. Aitman, Mrs. Chet, Mrs. M. Dana, Mrs. Donald, Mrs. J. N. Miller, Mrs. F. Alexander, Mrs. S. Matthews and Mrs. H. Olsen.

From the Wilbur baseball men came a challenge to play any strong semi-pro team for the benefit of the Alexander fund.

The Wilbur ballplayers include Charlie Dickman, former Princeton baseball and football star; Hy Bluestein, captain; Joe Lavan, formerly of Toronto in the International League; and Bill Baker, Garthoff, Allen and Riley of the Neponset Town team.

That our ball clubs, but watch your step, for the Wilbur team has had only two runs, one up on it in the last six games. Call C. E. Bluestein, manager, at Beach 4779.

Meanwhile, you Big Hearts, don't forget to send in your contributions.

The fleet, which was thronged with visitors from all parts of New South Wales.

Eight battleships and three auxiliaries, led by the flagship California, steamed through the heads to anchor. Australian seaplanes provided an aerial welcome and joined by several American planes, escorted the fleet into port.

It is estimated that more than 300,000 people will long continue to be fascinated by the arrival of the fleet. A continuous round of public and private entertainments has been arranged for the visitors.

STE OF FORD'S ALL UP FOR THE MYSTIC PLANT UNDER TEST

Big East Somerville Auto Shops Will Be Rushed to Completion

Engineers are engaged in testing the East Somerville site of the Ford Motor Company, to determine what foundations are needed, preparatory to starting work on the big assem-bly plant and office building which will house the Ford interests in New England.

The full title to the ground which is part of the Mystic Falls, bounded by the Mystic River, the Portland Division of the Boston & Maine, Mystic avenue and Middlesex av-enue, has been secured by the Ford company from the Boston & Maine railroad and work on the construc-tion of the plant will be rushed to completion.

About 2,500 persons will be em-ployed in the plant which will as-semble approximately 1,500 cars a day.

The assembling plant will be sim-ilar to those now located at Milwau-kee, Louisville and Norfolk. It will be a one-story building, 1,100 feet long and 201 feet wide, constructed largely of glass so as to afford the maximum of light and ventilation, and the greatest facility and ease in handling cars. The floor space will exceed 325,000 square feet.

Owing to a lack of facilities the plant in Cambridge will be closed.

An air-burning power plant will form part of the new building to furnish heat and electricity.

Although primarily intended as an assembling plant, for automobile parts manufactured elsewhere, it is understood that bodies will be built there for both open and closed cars.

France to List Aliens; Will Bar Undesirables

Paris, July 23 (A.P.)—The Petit Parisien says a Minister of Interior Schrameck is about to take mea-sures to institute a system whereby records would be kept of all foreign-ers in France. A close watch would be kept on their doings and undesi-rables would be expelled. The Min-ister said at present there are 2,000,000 foreigners in France as com-pared with 1,500,000 before the war. While he was satisfied the majority of them were respectable, he was con-victed there must be a number of criminals and political agitators among them.

Tolley and Tennis
Gautreau Has Courage
Automobiles and Legs
Champions Think
Lucky Bats Mean Hits

By NICK FLATLEY
CYRIL TOLLEY, one of the great and living golfers, desires the honor to take up tennis. He has been shocked by the constant defeat of his fellow players at the tennis courts and will try to bring glory to the game of the sport. Cyril is a great sports man. As he showed here and there in his tournaments. He said to be a tennis star, but hasn't played the game for years. Nick Flatley will find that time has removed the speed and the snap. A champion must keep eternally at his own game. Ruth, for instance, might have been a wonderful football player. But he couldn't go on to a high school grid from these days and last more than a few minutes. Youth, striving to ward the heights, has little respect for age or reputation.

LITTLE Walter Gautreau of the Braves deserves to make the grade. He has the sort of courage of which wars are made. He had a badly ulcerated tooth pulled out Tuesday noon, just before the game with the Cubs. But he didn't give a thing to Manager Bancroft about it. Walter was afraid he might be taken out of the lineup. Now that he's here, he wants to stay. A lot of the athletes might copy his style. Too many of the boys snitch at the best chance for a day, or a week, or a month off. Loss of vigor and physical courage in baseball eventually means loss of popularity.

A NATIONALLY famous football coach blames the automobile for the tendency of the modern youth to injury. He was berating the fact that practically every athlete takes a "crack" rest each fall, with twisted ankles or bad knees, or pulled tendons. "If the automobiles," he declares, "didn't walk any more than they do in grammar school, they have wrecked players. They ride everywhere. Their legs are soft, never get the exercise necessary to make them hard and able to stand up under rough work. That's why the powerful type of athlete is found out in the West where there's too much rough riding. Those former boys didn't train on gasoline when they were young. The fathers who drag this may use the argument gratis when the off spring is peering a car."

JIMMY GOODRICH, new lightweight champion, showed boys a whole of rounds before he went into the ring. He does this to get steam up, because he has found that his muscles don't really get working in a scrap until two or three rounds had passed. That sensation is undoubtedly one of the reasons Jimmy is champion.

ZACH WHEAT, Brooklyn manager, was fighting for the hit and lead in the National League when he broke his favorite bat. Then he went to the store before he made his next bat move. He believed in that bat more than he believed in his own arm. He was so sure of his judgment, or anything else, that he let players have his suggestions to grid miners. A star gets hitting with a certain club, and every other man on the team wants to use it. The bluegenie, not the man, is supposed to hold the luck. Ty Cobb had his first baseball fight because he insisted on using a bat that Sam Crawford was mauling the ball with. Roy Thomas used one bat for three years, and when it finally cracked and got pieces of wood turned at the factory to try to get a duplicate. Cost him something like $100, and he wasn't a star. But money was not working compared to the power stick. Baseball has been modernized, but the players, as a rule, are all fundamentalists. Try to tell them the old beliefs are wrong.

OFFICIAL OPENING OF MEET

Thousands Gather at Cape Town for Meet Under Auspices of Master of Clubs

The forty-third annual encampment and meet of the Eastern division of the American Canoe Association will open officially tonight at Onset and continue through Saturday and Sunday. The little Cape town is decorated in its bright holiday attire and is fast filling up with canoeists, their families and friends who are gathering here for the biggest meet in the history of the association.

A dance at the Colonial Casino will be the first event on the program. A beauty contest, a feature of the dance, has attracted all the prettiest of the camp, and the winner will be awarded a silver cup and the title, "Miss Onset."

under the capable administration of S. B. Chittenden, otherwise known as "Slim" of the Boston Evening American and John Novak, manager of the Colonial Restaurants of the Shawmut Plaza of Boston and Providence. It required the services of a large number of men, and the event was not without excitement.

Two of the women participants got into bad luck, but laughing it off. They had to make mental note of the articles displayed, the women were ushered into an adjoining room in the great Boronia barn, furnished with pen and pencil, and had to make mental note of the articles as they could remember.

The winner of the contest was The Shapard Store Table—Mrs. Marion McCreary of Brookline; the S. J. Pierce Company Table—Mrs. A. J. Ryan.

The official timekeeper of all events was Mrs. Anna O. Quinn, of the Boston Evening American.

The hoop race winners were Mrs. Harold Howard, followed by Mrs. Arthur Rockwood of Dorchester. Everybody now adjourned to the apple orchard, where took place the apple race. The winners were Mrs. New Harriet of East Braintree, followed by Mrs. John M. Mullen, and in the juvenile hunt, Britton, Lora White of Roxbury and Ruth Hanson of Dorchester were winners.

No one observed this party. The 10-year-olds were let out to find a big spot of Silliman and the first woman to unwind and run the silk was awarded first prize. The winning contest was Mrs. Rose Finn of Rutherford, Boston. Next came the bottle drinking contest, in which the stunt was, at a given signal, to drink a spit-bottle of River King ginger ale. This strenuous event was won by Mrs. Miss Carpenter of Brookline.

The 10-year dash for boys from ten to twelve years of age, was won by Robert M. Mullen of Marshfield. The 10-year dash for girls was won by Edward Kennedy of Dorchester. Miss Ruth Sanchez of Brookline was the winner of the 10-year dash for little girls.

Bobbie and His Pa

I SEEN a circus last week. Pa took me & told me all about the different sides. A circus is what somebody does in a circus, such like swinging on a Trap Pass or diving into a Tank or walking on a tight wire, etc. Bobbie, and Pa, say nothing to your mother about it when we hit home, but for several years I was with a circus, and Pa, I don't mean Del's Doozying Feet and Pa, yet I lived to tell of it. Was you as good on a Trap Pass as those here fellows? I said to Pa, better. Bobbie, and Pa, I was moor soppel, and Pa. What is it, soppel? I said. Limber, Bobbie, and Pa. Limber & soppel, I was a grate soppel in them days, and Pa, I took many risks. I bet you couldn't walk on no tight wire now, I said. I said with a limber prickle, and Pa, I said all come back to me in no time, and Pa. I bet you couldn't walk on no tight wire in the air, I said. With a few days on brain up, and Pa, I said, you could walk on no tight wire in the air, I said.
